LOCAL MOOSERS MET EDWIN LEE

State Chairman Here Last Night in Conference With Followers of T. R.

LOOKING OVER CONDITIONS

Question of County Ticket is Undecided Even After Vote Was Taken by Townships.

Edwin M. Lee, State chairman of the Bull Moose party was here last evening in conference with local followers of T. R. The exact reason of his visit here was not given out only "that he was here to look over conditions."

The conditions, according to local Moosers, as Lee found them were very favorable and he expressed himself pleased at the progress made. The leaders here were rather reticent in talking of his visit, especially that part dealing with advice in regard to a county ticket. It is known that Mr. Lee talked of a county ticket but along what lines is not known.

One Bull Mooser stated today that he didn't see how the impression got out that they had taken a vote on the question and at present it was unsettled. According to statements made by Ben L. McFarlan, county chairman of the third party, the question was left to each township and it was voted down. It can readily be seen that it was something more than an impression when it was given out for a positive fact by the leader of the party in Rush county.

One other progressive here stated that he was not at liberty to state just what advice State Chairman Lee gave last night in regard to a county ticket. It is a well known fact that the State committee of the Bull Moose party has urged a county ticket in every county and it follows that Mr. Lee made no exceptions in Rush county. It is also known that Bull Moosers here have caused the big Moosers of the State considerable trouble by declining to put a county ticket in the field. If the course pursued here by the State chairman was the same as elsewhere, then he advised for a county ticket and advised strongly.

Several of the leaders here have stated that they will have nothing more to do with the movement if a county ticket is put in the field. According to intimations made by members of the party these men may get a chance to stick to their word as State Chairman Lee's advice may be carried out. Even after taking a vote it seems that the county ticket is still hanging fire.

NO LOCAL PEOPLE HURT

But Many From Here See Premature Explosion at Greensburg.

A number of Rushville people were in Greensburg last night attending the Eagles street fair and witnessed the premature explosion of fireworks which resulted in the injury—more or less seriously—of thirty persons. A pinwheel blew off and ignited a box of skyrockets and many people were burned and several injured in their efforts to escape. Only two or three were seriously burned. None of the people hurt was from Rushville.

Greensburg News: V. K. Brown, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel of Rushville was in the city for a few hours last evening attending the street fair and boosting for the Rushville horse show which will be held in the course of the next few weeks.

GAS IN OVEN EXPLODES Mrs. E. A. Richey of Milroy is Badly Burned About the Face.

While preparing to do some baking on Thursday morning Mrs. E. A. Richey had lighted the fire in the oven of the gas range and from some cause the flame went out, leaving the oven to fill with gas, says the Milroy Press. And when Mrs. Richey opened the oven some time later the gas rushed out igniting from the flame on top of the range causing an explosion. The flames burned Mrs. Richey severely about the face. While the burns are very painful the eyes are not injured and it is not thought that there will be any serious results. Her little son, Robert, has some small blisters as a result of the explosion.

"MOONEY" MOSTER ALMOST CASHED IN

Got an Overdose of Chloral While Intoxicated and Came Near Dying.

WHISKEY CAUSED REACTION

Hugh Moster, better known as "Mooney" got an overdose of chloral while intoxicated last night and came near dying. Moster is a chloral dope and got a little too much chloral and whiskey wont mix especially when the whiskey is taken in large quantities such as Moster had and to this he probably owes his life. The whiskey killed the effect of the chloral and Moster is recovering at the county jail.

Moster attracted the attention of residents in South Main street last night by falling to the sidewalk. He was unconscious when aid reached his side and a rumor started that he had attempted suicide. He was carried to jail and instead of suicide it proved an overdose.

RALPH GARD WILL RECOVER

Anderson Physician Says Rushville Boy Whose Feet Were Cut Off, Will Get Well.

HE MAY COME HOME SUNDAY

It is Declared Experience of Gard Would Have Been Fatal to Most Men.

Dr. O. E. McWilliams, physician for the Big Four railroad in this city for several years, was authority for the statement yesterday that freight train tourists are more hardy than the average citizen, says the Anderson Herald.

The physician says that Ralph Gard, of Rushville, a young knight of the road, who was seriously hurt on Sunday night, will recover. Gard is doing well and will be able to go to his home in Rushville Sunday unless complications arise.

Dr. McWilliams says that the experience undergone by Gard Sunday would have proved fatal for an ordinary man. He says that in several instances he has had railroad men undergo the same experience as Gard but that invariably they have died.

"It appears," says the doctor, "that men traveling on the road encountering the hardships and deprivations of that kind of life, have better constitutions and are always better able to withstand ordeals similar to that with which young Gard underwent."

Gard had been away from his home in Rushville for six weeks, traveling on freights most of the time getting what little he could to eat by begging. According to the statement of the injured man he left Toledo, O., Friday night and did not eat a morsel until he reached Marion Sunday afternoon when he was given a biscuit and a cup of coffee by some kind hearted person whom he sought. He caught a Big Four freight train for Anderson about four o'clock Sunday afternoon and arrived here about seven o'clock. While lying along the tracks of the Big Four asleep and exhausted from traveling and hardships, he met with the accident which will make him a cripple for the rest of his life.

Both of the feet were badly crushed. One foot was amputated Sunday night by Dr. McWilliams and other physicians, while the other was saved through the surgeon's skill. Monday morning Gard was able to eat and was given his first full meal for several days. Although not receiving the care of a trained nurse in a special ward, he is getting along nicely and will recover.

A brother of the young man was here from Rushville Tuesday to see him. Ralph Gard is the nineteen-year-old son of William Gard, an employee of a furniture factory in Rushville. He was seized with a desire to roam the country about six weeks ago and as a result will be taken home Sunday a hopeless cripple. He was enroute to his home when the accident befell him.

LIBRARY MAY BE IMPROVED

Plans Are Afoot to Decorate Walls, Repair Floor and Add More Book Shelves.

NEW BOOKS ARE BEING ADDED

Mrs. Ora Wilson's Gift of Two Bound Volumes of Harpers Weekly Appreciated.

The public library in the court house promises to have a better and more prosperous year this year—the second since its birth. The first year in Rushville the new public library made a remarkable showing, viewed from the number of important and valued works added to its collection and the number of books loaned during the year.

Miss Mary Sleeth, the librarian, says the second year's showing will be so much better than the first that it will come as a great surprise to most Rushville people who have been interested in the project and are anxious to see it prosper.

Miss Sleeth declares that the number of books loaned the second year will be far in excess of the number of books loaned the year of the library's existence. The librarian is not so busy issuing books in the summer as in the winter, but she says that reading of the library books has been much more general this summer than last.

It is hoped by the librarian and those interested in it that some improvements will be made before the opening of the winter season. It is already assured that many new volumes will be added to the book shelves.

So far as improvements are concerned, it is already being planned to greatly alter the appearance of the room that houses the library so as to make it pretty and attractive. At present the walls are not papered or decorated, and they are dirty at that. It is anticipated that they will be decorated and the floors worked over. Too, it will be necessary during the fall to add some more book shelves because of the many books which will be added.

A benefit which will be helpful to the library this year, and which did not exist last year, is the tax from the city, assessed by the city council for the upkeep of the library. This tax will come in very well in purchasing the new books desired and in making the desired improvements. The first year the library existed alone on the popular subscriptions.

A number of up-to-date reference books which will be very helpful to people who wish to do research work of any nature have already been ordered and will be here in a few days. The reference books will have to do with labor, the reconstruction of China, Alaska and other timely topics. Other books, too, of interest to all readers have been ordered.

The latest and most valued acquisition to the library is two bound volumes of Harpers Weekly of the years 1862 and 1863, near the time of the beginning of the civil war, and the end. They were given to the library by Mrs. Ora Wilson, formerly of this city, who is now librarian of Hamilton College at Lexington, Ky. Because of their age, the two volumes are highly prized by Miss Sleeth, who said the people of Rushville should feel deeply indebted to Mrs. Wilson for the gift.

Commenting on the growth of the library Miss Sleeth said that, while attending the State librarians school at Earlham College this summer, she told other librarians from cities in Indiana of the number of books loaned here in the course of the first year.

WOULD OUST THE NOMINEE

E. F. Warfel, Editor of Richmond Editor of Item, Presses Charges Against J. A. Greenstreet.

IS BULL MOOSE CANDIDATE

B. Dud. Foulke's Man "Friday" is Said to be Making Way Clear For His Master.

Joseph A. Greenstreet of Franklin township, the Bull Moose nominee for representative in congress from the Sixth district, is contemplating resigning as the candidate for congress, says the Newcastle Courier. The matter will be fully determined late this afternoon or tomorrow on the return of Rudolph G. Leeds of Richmond, district chairman, from a trip to New York.

Since his nomination for congress Mr. Greenstreet, it is stated, has been attacked by former business associates in Richmond. Mr. Greenstreet was formerly engaged in the business of manufacturing shovel handles in that city, but disposed of his interests there and became identified with the French piano company of this city.

W. R. Wilson, county chairman of the Bull Moose party in Henry county, was seen yesterday morning in regard to the report that Greenstreet had withdrawn as a candidate. Mr. Wilson stated that he would probably not do so.

"Mr. Greenstreet has been made the victim of a personal attack by former business associates," said Mr. Wilson. "He contemplated because of these attacks to withdraw as our party's candidate for congress. However, I do not believe that he will do so. The matter will be fully determined late this afternoon or tomorrow on the return of Mr. Leeds from New York."

Greenstreet and W. R. Steele went to Richmond Wednesday afternoon for a conference with Bull Moose leaders in that city. The men, who had made the attack on him were also seen in every case, but one satisfactory arrangement and explanation were made. In the exception the individual would not be satisfied and was called "somewhat of an anarchist" by Chairman Wilson.

In case of Greenstreet's withdrawal the moose congressional mantle will probably fall on William Dudley Foulke, the Richmond millionaire editor. Foulke was defeated by Greenstreet at the district convention by the narrow margin of half a vote.

The nature of the attacks made on Greenstreet has not been made public. It is understood that they are of a business nature and are in connection with his identification with the handle industry in Richmond.

In a dispatch from Richmond, the Courier continues: The personal ambition of William Dudley Foulke, who was defeated for the Bull Moose nomination for congress by Joseph A. Greenstreet of Henry county, has resulted in the near disruption of the Moose district organization and may cause Greenstreet to resign as the congressional nominee.

Foulke's man, "Friday," Ed Warfel, editor of the Item, has dug up an alleged business scandal in which Greenstreet is said to have participated when he was in the handle manufacturing business at Richmond. Warfel, who is the Moosiest sort of a Moose and of the rule or ruin variety with "a bean spilling" proclivities, has, it is stated, demanded that Greenstreet withdraw from the race and make room for a man with a reputation that is unsullied. That man, according to Warfel's notion and Continued on Page 8

She said many of them were dumbfounded and would hardly believe the record she had to offer. Miss Sleeth declared that she learned that many libraries in cities three and four times as large as Rushville did not have any more patronage—and the majority of them were Carnegie libraries at that.

PLANS AFOOT TO FORM TAFT CLUB

Many Republicans Anxious For Organization so They Can Help Out in Campaign.

HOPE MAY BE REALIZED SOON

Plans are being formulated to form a Taft club in Rush county. There are a number of Republicans who have expressed a keen desire to get into the campaign early because of what is at stake this year, and they are anxious to be of some value in the fight for the victory of the Republican party. It is intimated that some arrangements may be made in the next several days for a meeting at which a Taft club will be formed. There are any number of Republicans who are only too willing to join such an organization and they are hoping that it will be perfected in the course of the campaign. It is anticipated by many that the time is ripe for the formation of a club to further the interests of the leader of the Republican party, and it is believed that it could be started off with a large membership.

ONE OF REVIVAL WORKERS ARRIVE

Don Cochran, Custodian of Tabernacle, Says Work Will be Started at Once.

HAS TO BE BUILT NEXT WEEK

Don Cochran, one of the company of seven helpers who will be here with Dr. W. E. Biederwolf during the county wide evangelistic campaign, which will begin a week from next Sunday, arrived in Rushville today. It is Mr. Cochran's duty to oversee the erection of the tabernacle. Mr. Cochran said that work on the building which will be erected on the old foundry lot in Perkins street between Second and Third streets, will be started at once and rushed to completion. He stated that lumber would be hauled to the lot in the morning, and that the work of construction would be started off with a rush on Monday morning so that it will be completed by a week from tomorrow. Much of the labor will be volunteered, it is expected.

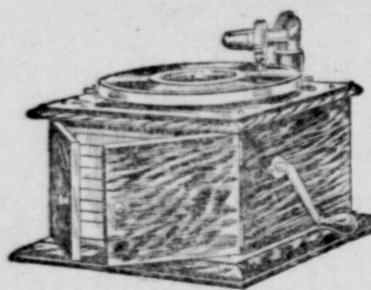

BUSINESS IN COURT DULL.

Business in the circuit court today was rather dull, only one case being settled. That was the note suit of Henry C. Doles and Paul E. Doles against Charles Barber, demanding $110, in which judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $90 was returned by Judge Blair. The case of Jackson against Brown, which was set down for today, was continued on account of the illness of one of the attorneys.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR SEPT. 15.

JUDGMENT AND MERCY.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 11:20-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. 11:28.

The paragraph mark separating verses 27 and 28 should rightfully be removed for that portion is but a continuation and a contrast with what has gone before. As we see from Luke's account, Jesus has sent out the seventy who return boasting of what had been accomplished in Jesus' name, only to receive his reproof that they are not so much to rejoice in that as that their names were written in heaven."

Jesus had made his appeal to Judea only to be rejected; he has done a marvelous work in Galilee only to be rejected there also, and thus it leads to his appeal to the individual. Jesus knew that every problem of the church, financial or otherwise, every problem of the body politic, is in its final analysis one of the condition of the individual heart.

We have before us a twofold division of this lesson:

I. Those Who Reject. One can scarce reconcile the speaker of this first section with him who spoke the last words, but is any denunciation more awful than that of outraged love? There is no contradiction here for his invitation is extended to the very people whom he has denounced. Chorazin and Bethsaida, laden with sin, are urged to break off their yoke of bondage, be reconciled with him, become yoked with him whose burden is light.

Judgment Inevitable.

These cities had their day of opportunity. In like manner we notice that the measure of the judgment is the measure of opportunity. The fate of Tyre and Sodom was awful, but more terrible is to be the fate, in the day of judgment, of Chorazin and Bethsaida, because they sinned against the greater light. The possible exaltation of Capernaum as shown by the question asked in verse 23.

Again we need to note that judgment is inevitable. It is the lot and portion of us all. Jesus created a wonderful opportunity for those cities and in a like manner has created one for us as individuals of the city, what will be our accounting in the judgment? We as citizens are being illuminated by a wonderful revelation of truth and righteousness. Shall New York, Chicago and other large centers become as ancient Capernaum or Babylon, Nineveh and Tyre?

II. Those Who Come to Jesus. Coming now to the second section of our lesson, one can feel the tender pathos of the voice of Jesus as he turns from the whole to the individuals who comprise the whole and cries—"Hither to me." Not alone those who are burdened by ceremonialism or guilt but a more wonderful scope than that, "All who labor." His invitation is, however, limited, for it is to the laboring, thus excluding the wilfully idle, whether they be idle materially or spiritually.

Offers a Life.

Jesus knew the rest of harmonious relation to the Father, the rest of service and so the climax of his invitation is the test of experience v. 30, "For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." Notice that our labor is to be fruitful, "heavy laden," but the joy of service far outweighs any thought of its becoming a duty and therefore onerous. A yoke implies a being attached to a load and with another. How may we know if his words be true? There is but one condition, "Come." Jesus meant just what and all that word implies. The babe sitting upon the knee of its nurse knows what its mother means when she calls "Come," and so Jesus extends his arms to sorrowful, laden humanity as well as to ceremonially laden Israel and says "Come." Not to a church or to some religious leader, but to Jesus himself. The invitation is very personal both as to the one who shall come, and the one to whom we are to come.

There is in this lesson a luminous suggestion of Jesus' method of dealing with the ills of our great cities. He does not propose a lot of negotiations, but offers a life, an energizing power that shall enable a company of his believers to change these conditions of ill. Some one has called attention to Jesus' attitude towards the Roman empire. Not one word of specific rebuke nor denunciation, yet in approximately three hundred years there was a Christian emperor upon that throne.

These words of Jesus thrill with music. They have been a solace throughout the ages. They have brought into his kingdom countless thousands.

Jesus here assumes, as he always did, that the woes of the impotent and the joys of the saved are conditioned upon our attitude towards him. Let us be careful not to slip the yoke and not to be unequally yoked with unbelievers. We are called to a partnership, a community of interest and to an agreement with him whose "yoke is easy and whose burden is light."

Judgment and Mercy. Matt. xi:20-30.
Golden Text—Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. xi:28.

(1) Verse 20—What is the different degree of blameworthiness to one who rejects the gospel after having had many opportunities to accept and one who rejects it having had but few opportunities?

(2) Verse 21—if two sinners, practically duplicates of each other, hear the gospel and the one under very great influence accepts, while the other under a less influence rejects, should we blame the latter for rejecting or the influence for being too weak? Why?

(3) What "mighty works," if any, are recorded as having been done in Chorazin?

(4) What proportion of the "works" and sayings of Jesus would you say we have recorded in the four gospels?

(5) What amount of blame must we give to Tyre and Sidon for not repenting now we know they would have done so if the influences had been stronger?

(6) Verse 22—Will there be degrees of punishments for the wicked and degrees of rewards for the good in the future state? Why?

(7) Verses 23-24—What would you say is the literal meaning of the doom which Jesus pronounces upon Capernaum?

(8) Why was Sodom, that very wicked city, deserving of less blame than Capernaum?

(9) Which entails the greater guilt, and why, the degree of sin or the degree of resistance of salvation? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(10) What had Jesus done in Capernaum which laid that city under such debt of obligation?

(11) When do you think the "day of judgment" will be?

(12) Verses 25-26—What class of people were they in that day which most readily accepted the story of the gospel?

(13) What class of men and women, for the most part, were the special friends of Jesus?

(14) In what way does God hide spiritual truth from "the wise and prudent" and reveal it "unto babes?"

(15) Why is it that a proud educated man or a proud rich man cannot perceive spiritual truth?

(16) What class of persons are those who see, hear and obey God?

(17) Verse 27—Upon whom does our eternal salvation and our communion with God depend? Why?

(18) Verses 28-30—Who are the burdened and heavy laden to whom this invitation is given?

(19) What is the nature of the rest which Jesus gives?

(20) Is it hard or easy, and why, to live a perfect Christian life?

The Feeding of the Five Thousand.

Christian Endeavor

By E. P. Gates

TOPIC FOR SEPTEMBER 15.

Getting the Most From Prayer. Ps.

34:1-22.

Results from prayer depends greatly on the right attitude of petition. Pride cannot pray successfully. But the "Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart, and saeth such as be of a contrite spirit."

Prevailing prayer must be frequent. We are told to pray without ceasing.

Prayer should be definite. What right have we to expect what we ask for unless we know ourselves what it is we want?

Prayer should be more than a formality. A few muttered words before breakfast may keep the letter of the Christian Endeavor pledge, but it can hardly be called real prayer.

There is no better aid to a sincere prayer life for Christian Endeavorers than the Quiet Hour movement. Members of this organization pledge themselves as follows: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength I promise him that I will make it the rule of my life to set apart at least fifteen minutes a day (preferably in the early morning) for quiet communion with God." This period may be spent in prayer, Bible study or quiet meditation.

There are no dues to this organization. It costs nothing to join. Any one is eligible. Its one purpose is to develop among young people a deeper sense of the real power that comes from communion with the master. Those who desire to join should send their names to William Shaw, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, Tremont temple, Boston, Mass.

Next Week's Meeting.
Topic: Believe! Believe Much! Believe strongly! John 11:17-27, 41-46.

Four hundred societies have been organized in India during the past two years. The total enrollment for that country is now 1,337.

DON'T BE CREATURE OF HABIT

It is Better to Make Some Blunders Than to Oscillate Always in a Groove.

It is a good plan to break one's habits occasionally, to see that it can still be done. To follow even the best of habits too closely tends to ossify existence. It makes one stiff. It narrows his tastes. The retired farmer who still gets up before daylight every morning, so as to get an early start waiting for bedtime, would be much better off if during the stress of life he had broken his habit occasionally and slept until nine o'clock.

The city man who lets the street, the flat, the office grind become an unbearable habit loses all his elasticity.

Recently a brother and sister were found in an eastern state who had lived on the same farm for sixty years, and during that time had not been ten miles from home. For thirty years the woman had not been to town, five miles away, and for 15 years, although well and strong, she had not been so far from the house as the branch in their bottom field. Habits of life like this become prison chains. One must do some things the same way or nearly the same to learn to do them well, but once having acquired the skill of repetition, it is well to break away and do it some other way. It is better to make some blunders and get some knocks experimenting than to oscillate in a groove until freedom ends.—Collier's Weekly.

Your Temper and Your Cat's.

Cats are of a high strung and sensitive nature, easily influenced by their surroundings. If you wish a fine tempered, nice little home loving cat you must possess some of these attributes yourself.

You cannot expect to have a very amiable animal if you are cranky all the time. Give the animal credit for being a good imitator. If you are vile tempered and given to striking the kitten, find no fault if the cat has a like manner and strikes people and smaller animals.—Dumb Animals.

WHY BE MISERABLE WITH HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe Remedy Gives Instant Relief, Even in The Worst Cases.

Thousands of people are miserable two or three months every summer with Hay Fever and Rose Cold. They go around sneezing, blowing the nose and wiping their eyes, and at night they are so choked up they can hardly breathe. There is no need of this. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve all these distressing symptoms in less than five minutes' time.

Hay Fever is due to an over sensitive condition of the membrane lining of the nose and throat. Ely's Cream Balm soothes, heals and strengthens this delicate inside skin, so that you not only get instant relief but are also protected against a return of the trouble.

Don't hesitate because you have been disappointed with other remedies. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after a fair trial, get your money back. All drug-gists sell and recommend it.

themselves are nothing. What do you suppose I care for veiled threats of that sort? I'm big enough to take care of myself, Clyde. I've met peril in about every possible guise, in every part of the world, and I've never really known fear. But this—is different. And the worst of it is, I don't know why. I can't for the life of me make out what it is I'm afraid of."

"On the afternoon of Friday, August twenty-first, seven days after the receipt of that first letter, I was sitting where you are sitting now. I was reading, and deeply interested. I had put the letter, as I told you, entirely out of my mind. I had forgotten it, absolutely. That seventh-day business I had regarded—if I regarded it at all—as idle vaporizing. That this was the afternoon of the seventh day did not occur to me until afterwards. I recall that I paused in reading to ponder a paragraph that was not quite clear to me, and that while in contemplation I fixed my eyes upon that portrait. I remember that, because it struck me, then, that the flesh tints of the face had grown muddy and that the thing would be better for a cleaning. I recollect, too, that at that moment, the little clock, yonder, struck three. I resumed my reading; but presently, another statement demanding cogitation, I lowered my book, and once more my eyes rested on the portrait. But not on the muddy flesh tints, because—" he paused and leaned forward, towards me, speaking with impressive emphasis. "Because," he repeated, "there were no flesh tints there. Because there was no head nor face there!"

I sat up suddenly, open-mouthed, speechless. Only my wide eyes made question.

"Cut from the canvas," he went on, in lowered voice, "clean and sharp from crown to collar. And the hands of the clock pointed to twelve minutes past three."

though his response was, there was a shade of reluctance in his manner; for he relapsed into silence for what must have been the better part of a minute, and with eyes lowered sat seemingly lost in thought.

Then he rose, abruptly, and saying: "Suppose we go into my study, Clyde," led the way from the dining room, across the great, imposing, grained and fretted hall to that comparatively small mahogany and green symphony wherein he was wont to spend most of his indoor hours. It was always a rather gloomy room at night, with its high dark ceiling, its heavy and voluminous olive tapestry hangings, wholly out of keeping, it seemed to me, with the season—and its shaded lights confined to the vicinity of the massive polished, and gilt-ornamented writing table of the period of the First Empire. And it impressed me now, in conjunction with Cameron's promised revelation, as more than ever grim and awesome.

I remember helping myself to a cigar from the humidor which stood on the antique cabinet in the corner near the door. I was in the act of lighting it when Cameron spoke.

"I want you to sit in this chair," he said, indicating one of sumptuous upholstery which stood beside the writing table, facing the low, long bookcases lining the opposite wall.

I did as he bade me, while he remained standing.

"Do you, by any chance," he asked, "remember a portrait which hung above the book-shelves?"

I remembered it very well. It was a painting of himself, done some years back. But now my gaze sought it in vain.

"Certainly," I answered. "It hung there," pointing.

"Quite right. Now I want you to observe the shelf-top. You see how crowded it is."

It was indeed crowded. Bronze busts and statuettes; yachting and golf trophies in silver; framed photographs; a score of odds and ends, souvenirs gathered the world over. There was scarcely an inch of space unoccupied. I had frequently observed this plethora of ornament and resented it.

He had gone very pale, and his strong, capable hands, which toyed with the two letters, quivered and twitched in excess of nervous tension.

Then, with a finger pointing to the ink-stain at the bottom of one of the sheets, he asked:

"What does that look like to you?"

I took the letter from him, and scrutinizing the rude figure with concentrated attention for a moment, ventured the suggestion that it somewhat resembled a boat.

"A one-masted vessel, square-rigged," he added, in elucidation.

"Exactly."

"Now turn it upside down."

I did so.

"Now what do you see?"

"The head of a man wearing a helmet." The resemblance was very marked.

"A straw helmet, apparently," he amplified, "such as is worn in the Orient. And yet the profile is not that of an Oriental. Now, look at your vessel again." And once more I reversed the sheet of paper.

"Can it be a Chinese junk?" I asked.

"It might be a sailing pros or banca," he returned, "such as they use in the South Pacific. But whatever it is, I can't understand what it has to do with me or I with it."

I was still studying the black daub, when he said:

"But you haven't told me about the handwriting. What can you read of the character of the writer?"

"Nothing," I answered, promptly.

"It is curious penmanship, as you say—it is heavy and regular and upright, with some strangely formed letters; especially the T's and the P's; but it tells me nothing."

"But I thought—" he began.

"That I boasted?" So I did. When one writes as one habitually writes it is very easy. These letters, however, are not in the writer's ordinary hand. The writing is as artificial as though you, for example, had printed a note in Roman characters. Were they addressed in the same hand?"

"Precisely."

"What was the post-mark?"

"They bore no post-mark. That is another strange circumstance. Yet they were with my mail. How they came there I have been unable to ascertain. The people at the post office naturally deny that they delivered anything unstamped, as these were; and Barrie, the lad who fetches the letters, has no recollection of these. Nor has Checkabuddy, who sorts the mail here at the house. But each of them lay beside my plate at breakfast—the first on the fourteenth of August; the second, this morning, the fourteenth of September."

"And they were not delivered by messenger?"

"So far as I can learn, no."

"It is very odd," I commented, with feeble banality.

I took the letters from his hands once more, and held them in turn between my vision and the candle-light, hoping, perchance, to discover a water-mark in the paper. But I was not rewarded.

"You examined the envelopes carefully, I presume?" was my query as I returned the sheets to the table.

"More than carefully," he answered. "But you shall see them, if you like. I found no trace of any identifying mark."

Thus far he had made no further mention of the "puzzling happening" which followed the receipt of the first letter, and in the interest provoked by the letters themselves I had foreborne to question him; but now as the words "seventh day hence" fell again under my eye, standing out, as it were, from the rest of the script which lay upon the table before me, I was conscious of a stimulated concern, and made inquiry.

Cameron showed me the mutilated portrait. He had taken it down almost immediately, and had hidden it away in a closet of the hall behind an array of raincoats. The cutting had been done, evidently, with an exceedingly keen blade, and very dexterously done. But that it should have been accomplished in twelve minutes, while Cameron sat in the room, not fifteen feet distant, was beyond our comprehension. Absorption in his book was the nearest we came to a solution, and that was scarcely tenable. For there was the crowded top of the bookshelves. To cut the canvas, the vandal must either have stood upon that or have reared a ladder. There was not room for the foot of a child on the shelf-top; and as for the ladder, it was unthinkable. How could a ladder have been carried in and out without Cameron being conscious of it? From every possible angle we viewed the incident, making every conceivable concession, and no half-way plausible answer to the riddle presented itself.

And though our common-sense told us that the time of miracles was long past, that no Gyges' ring nor Alberich's cloak survived to this day to make invisible their wearers, there persisted, nevertheless, a chill, uncanny sense of the supernatural, quite evident to me in Cameron's hushed voice and furtive manner, and in my own unwanted nervous disquietude.

We sat very late. I wished, if possible, to learn if at any time in my friend's life he had done ought to engender an enmity to which these strange developments could be traced—whether, for instance, in the hot blood of his youth in some far land he had provoked the vengeance of one whose humor it is never to forget. As we talked I came to know Cameron better than I had ever known him before. He bared to me much of his early career; he gave me a clearer view of his temperamental qualities; and yet I could not but feel that he left the vital point untouched, that beneath his seeming frankness there lay hidden, shielded, some one episode, perhaps, which might let the light in upon our darkness. For my question was evaded rather than answered.

Presently, we went back to the letters and dissected them, coldly and critically, sentence by sentence, and while the weird influence which they had exerted upon me at the first reading increased, stimulated possibly by the incident of the portrait, still we reached a certain practical, commonsense view as to their origin; for we came to see in them what we believed to be the hand of a religious fanatic. Certain expressions, we concluded, were quotations. If they were not Biblical, they were certainly of sacred genesis. And the discovery was not reassuring. It lent, indeed, an added prick to the perturbation we already experienced.

HE WOULDN'T EAT WITH MR. MURPHY

Governor Wilson Disarranges Luncheon Plans.

TAKEN AS SNUB FOR GOV. DIX

Democratic Presidential Nominee Cast Bomb Into Camp of Murphy-Dix Following When He Not Only Declined to Be Photographed With Murphy and Dix, but Left Luncheon at Which He Would Have Been Near Them.

New York, Sept. 13.—As the presidential candidate of the Democratic party, Governor Wilson of New Jersey indicated very clearly on arriving here from Syracuse that he was opposed to the renomination of John A. Dix for governor of New York state.

The whole course of the day's events contributed to the formation of the opinion that the presidential nominee does not want Governor Dix as a gubernatorial candidate, and that while he feels he may not so declare himself, he will not permit the impression to get abroad that he is friendly to Charles F. Murphy or any other Democratic leaders who have made up their minds that Governor Dix shall be re-nominated.

He refused to talk politics with Governor Dix, he refused to be photographed with Governor Dix and Mr. Murphy, and he left a luncheon at which the seating arrangements placed him conspicuously with these gentlemen and others who are at the head of the organization in the state. When he left Syracuse the governor was angry. He let it be known that he knew an attempt had been made to use him to bolster up Murphy's claim as a representative leader and that he resented that attempt as well as the attempt that was made to use his presence as the guest of the state fair officials for the purpose of showing that he was on friendly terms with those who are trying to bring about the re-nomination of Governor Dix.

TALKED ON TARIFF

Governor Wilson Addressed Crowd of 15,000 at State Fair.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Governor Wilson, accompanied by Governor Dix, Senator O'Gorman, Acting Democratic National Chairman McDowell, Fair Commissioner Driscoll and others, escorted by Troop D, was jubilantly applauded as he entered the fair grounds last evening. There was an audience of 15,000. Governor Wilson's address was devoted almost entirely to the tariff.

A WOMAN'S WAY

How Dundee Suffragette Hoped to Reach Mr. Churchill.

Dundee, Sept. 13.—A suffragette named Clunas went to the postoffice here with a card affixed to herself, addressed to the residence where Winston Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty, is staying. She requested the postal authorities to deliver her by express messenger. In accordance with the regulations of the postoffice they were obliged to comply, and took the "human parcel" to its destination.

Mr. Churchill was absent when the parcel arrived, and his secretary refused to accept the woman, who withdrew much chagrined.

FUGITIVE TAKES BRIDE WITH HIM

The Latest Exploit of Young Orville Hodgson.

POSED AS A MILLIONAIRE

Hartford City Forger Who Has Successfully Eluded Police of Three Cities, Now Is Reported to Have Made His Latest Getaway With a Bride, a Louisville Girl, Whose Family Accepted Him as a Man of Wealth.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 13.—Word comes that the young man believed to be Orville Hodgson of this city, who is wanted at Frankfort and Indianapolis on forgery charges and with rewards of $1,150 outstanding for him, was married Tuesday in Covington, Ky., to Miss Hattie Bainbridge of Louisville.

The forger plunged into matrimony less than twenty-four hours after he had wriggled through the fingers of the officers of the law in Louisville. He had been arrested after trying to cash a check for $1,750 at the Southern National bank, which he had persuaded a Shelbyville (Ky.) bank to give him in part exchange for a $2,750 check, to which he is accused of forging the name of a Shelbyville (Ky.)

He hurried to Louisville in his automobile to cash the check, but while he was negotiating it a telephone message came from Shelbyville and he was arrested after an exciting chase.

He engaged attorneys who obtained the low bond of $300 for him. He put up the bond, gave the attorneys his automobile and disappeared. The forger had been living in Louisville several weeks posing as a New York millionaire, and had made the acquaintance of Miss Bainbridge. Monday afternoon he was to attend a picnic with the Bainbridge family, but he telephoned that afternoon that he had been called to Cincinnati.

Monday night Miss Bainbridge went to Cincinnati on a shopping tour with Miss Anna Mays. Tuesday she met the man supposed to be Hodgson there and they were married by the Rev. N. H. Carlisle in Covington. Miss Mays returned home and brought the marriage certificate to the parents of Miss Bainbridge, who in the meantime had discovered that their daughter's husband is a forger and are distressed over her marriage. Miss Mays says she had no idea that Miss Bainbridge was to be married. Where the two are now no one knows.

JURY DISAGREED

Suit to Quiet Title to Valuable Lands a Mistrial.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 13.—A jury in the superior court reported a disagreement in the case instituted by Mrs. Druisilla Carr of Miller, Lake county, to quiet the title to 350 acres of land near Gary in her name. Mrs. Carr contended that she owned the land by adverse possession and her right to the property was not disputed until recently. The land, practically worthless before Gary was built, is now worth $52,500. Last spring, after a trial lasting a month, title to land on the lake shore near Gary, worth $250,000, was given Mrs. Carr.

This Thief Was Nervy.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 13.—While Anders Hansen, day police sergeant, slept, a thief, who evidently knew of Hansen's habit of carrying large sums of money, crept into his home and robbed him of between $300 and $400. The money was taken from a pocket of Hansen's trousers, which hung less than eight feet from the bed where the policeman and his wife were sleeping.

LINE-UP WILL BE UNCHANGED

Newcastle Will Face Rushville Sunday With Practically Same Team as Week Ago.

400 ROOTERS ARE COMING

Game Promises to Attract Record Breaking Crowd—Walters or Maxwell to Pitch.

The game Sunday between the locals and the Maxwells of Newcastle, champions of the Indiana State League, will undoubtedly be the best of the season for this city. In a majority of games here Rushville has outclassed their opponents and has had no really hard games. The team while playing good ball has not been forced to extend.

But with Newcastle it is a different story as the fans who witnessed the game last Sunday well know. The local team will be forced to play as hard as they did last Sunday. Rushville will be playing a team in its own class and the battle should be a hummer. The game last Sunday which went ten innings showed the Newcastle team did not have it soft by any means and Rushville will not only give Maxwell a fight, but hopes to win.

The Newcastle team will not be strengthened to any great extent as was first thought. The team, according to all reports is stronger than that which went through the league season. Dal Williams, manager of the Maxwell team has sent his line-up to Manager Maibaugh and the team is practically the same as that of last Sunday. The line-up received here is as follows: Kilgore, 1st; Ernestberger, 2d; Stadtfelt, ss; Stiers, lf; Green, cf; Wilson, rf; Riley, c; Maxwell or Walters, p.

Interest in the game continues to be intense. Word from Newcastle states that at least 400 rooters will invade this city and pull for a second victory over the locals. Fans here refuse to believe that Newcastle has the best team and with an even break in luck Rushville should romp home with a victory. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

idea is William Dudley Foulke.

Warfel continues to press his charges, which were scouted by Greenstreet's friends at Richmond and over the district. He would not be satisfied and would not listen to argument or heed the advice of the politicians of the Moose party.

Warfel's demands became more insistent and finally Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Greenstreet and his attorney, W. R. Steele came to Richmond from Newcastle armed with receipts, agreements and other similar documents and were prepared to show beyond any doubt that Greenstreet's business record in Richmond was clean and honest and not tainted by disreputable tactics or practices. The exhibit was spread before Warfel and others who had heard the accusations. Everybody was satisfied with the exception of Warfel, who admitted that the proofs were at hand, but dismissed the whole affair with the statement that the "people could not be convinced."

Warfel's attitude is made dangerous by the position that he holds as editor of the Item. The Moose leaders are about to yield to his demands as they fear the loss of the support of his paper and of the barrel of his boss, R. G. Leeds, district chairman, was expected to return yesterday afternoon from New York and the situation will be put up to him as soon as possible.

Curt Gosnell won the 2:17 pace at Fairmount, West Virginia, yesterday with Halley's Comet. He was strong enough to win the first heat, but fell back to fifth place in the second heat. He came back good the last two heats and won with ease.

ENOS PORTER TO STAY BY PARTY

Prominent Republican of Shelbyville, Well Known Here, Accepts Place on Executive Committee.

T. R. DELEGATE FROM SIXTH

Expresses Belief Taft Was Honestly Nominated and Republican Party Should be Supported.

Mr Porter who has been in Chicago on business, stopped off at Indianapolis Wednesday on his way home in order to call on Fred A. Sims, chairman of the Republican State committee, and tell him that he would accept the appointment as a member of the committee, according to the Indianapolis News. There are few better known party workers in the State than Mr. Porter, who is influential in Shelby county and Sixth district affairs. He made a hard fight for Roosevelt previously to the Republican convention at Chicago, and after being elected delegate to the convention did his best to help effect Roosevelt's nomination.

But when the convention nominated President Taft, Mr. Porter could not see the alleged fraud in the nomination which many of the Roosevelt men contended was there. Mr. Porter is now for the election of President Taft and the whole Republican ticket. He has returned to Shelby county, where he will be an active worker for the Republican success in the State. The other members of the State executive committee are George B. Lockwood of Marion; George W. Kreitenstein of Terre Haute; Webb Woodfill of Greensburg, and Perry Smith of Warsaw. The executive committee now has active supervision of county and precinct organization work all over the State.

MAPLE IS BACK IN TERRE HAUTE

Local Trainer Arrives From Ft. Wayne in Time to Drive Game Chance to Money.

COLLEGE JIM TAKES A RACE

Cell Maple's back in Terre Haute. He got there soon enough yesterday to win second money in the three-year-old pace with Game of Chance, a Rush county owned and bred youngster. The horse has been winning consistently all season. The best time was in 2:20½. Maple won a race at Fort Wayne Wednesday with Nellie Gray, after having finished in the money with Lady Maude S. at Terre Haute Tuesday.

Harrie Jones won the free-for-all pace at Fort Wayne yesterday with College Jim, the veteran campaigner, who the local trainer gave a mark of 2:06 last week at the State fair in order to win a race. The best time was in 2:08½. The pace was the feature of the day's card there.

Curt Gosnell won the 2:17 pace at Fairmount, West Virginia, yesterday with Halley's Comet. He was strong enough to win the first heat, but fell back to fifth place in the second heat. He came back good the last two heats and won with ease.

LOCAL MOOSERS MET EDWIN LEE

GAS IN OVEN EXPLODES

Mrs. E. A. Richey of Milroy is Badly Burned About the Face.

While preparing to do some baking on Thursday morning Mrs. E. A. Richey had lighted the fire in the oven of the gas range and from some cause the flame went out, leaving the oven to fill with gas, says the Milroy Press. And when Mrs. Richey opened the oven some time later the gas rushed out igniting from the flame on top of the range causing an explosion. The flames burned Mrs. Richey severely about the face. While the burns are very painful the eyes are not injured and it is not thought that there will be any serious results. Her little son, Robert, has some small blisters as a result of the explosion.

"MOONEY" MOSTER ALMOST CASHED IN

Got an Overdose of Chloral While Intoxicated and Came Near Dying.

WHISKEY CAUSED REACTION

Hugh Moster, better known as "Mooney" got an overdose of chloral while intoxicated last night and came near dying. Moster is a chloral dope and got a little too much chloral and whiskey won't mix especially when the whiskey is taken in large quantities such as Moster had and to this he probably owes his life. The whiskey killed the effect of the chloral and Moster is recovering at the county jail.

Moster attracted the attention of residents in South Main street last night by falling to the sidewalk. He was unconscious when aid reached his side and a rumor started that he had attempted suicide. He was carried to jail and instead of suicide it proved an overdose.

RALPH GARD WILL RECOVER

Anderson Physician Says Rushville Boy Whose Feet Were Cut Off, Will Get Well.

HE MAY COME HOME SUNDAY

It is Declared Experience of Gard Would Have Been Fatal to Most Men.

Dr. O. E. McWilliams, physician for the Big Four railroad in this city for several years, was authority for the statement yesterday that freight train tourists are more hardy than the average citizen, says the Anderson Herald.

The physician says that Ralph Gard, of Rushville, a young knight of the road, who was seriously hurt on Sunday night, will recover. Gard is doing well and will be able to go to his home in Rushville Sunday unless complications arise.

Dr. McWilliams says that the experience undergone by Gard Sunday would have proved fatal for an ordinary man. He says that in several instances he has had railroad men undergo the same experience as Gard but that invariably they have died.

"It appears," says the doctor, "that men traveling on the road encountering the hardships and deprivations of that kind of life, have better constitutions and are always better able to withstand ordeals similar to that with which young Gard underwent."

Gard had been away from his home in Rushville for six weeks, traveling on freights most of the time getting what little he could to eat by begging.

According to the statement of the injured man he left Toledo, O., Friday night and did not eat a morsel until he reached Marion Sunday afternoon when he was given a biscuit and a cup of coffee by some kind hearted person whom he sought.

He caught a Big Four freight train for Anderson about four o'clock Sunday afternoon and arrived here about seven o'clock. While lying along the tracks of the Big Four asleep and exhausted from traveling and hardships, he met with the accident which will make him a cripple for the rest of his life.

Both of the feet were badly crushed. One foot was amputated Sunday night by Dr. McWilliams and other physicians, while the other was saved through the surgeon's skill. Monday morning Gard was able to eat and was given his first full meal for several days. Although not receiving the care of a trained nurse in a special ward, he is getting along nicely and will recover.

A brother of the young man was here from Rushville Tuesday to see him. Ralph Gard is the nineteen-year-old son of William Gard, an employee of a furniture factory in Rushville. He was seized with a desire to roam the country about six weeks ago and as a result will be taken home Sunday a hopeless cripple. He was enroute to his home when the accident befell him.

LIBRARY MAY BE IMPROVED

Plans Are Afoot to Decorate Walls, Repair Floor and Add More Book Shelves.

NEW BOOKS ARE BEING ADDED

Mrs. Ora Wilson's Gift of Two Bound Volumes of Harpers Weekly Appreciated.

The public library in the court house promises to have a better and more prosperous year this year—the second since its birth. The first year in Rushville the new public library made a remarkable showing, viewed from the number of important and valued works added to its collection and the number of books loaned during the year.

Miss Mary Sleeth, the librarian, says the second year's showing will be so much better than the first that it will come as a great surprise to most Rushville people who have been interested in the project and are anxious to see it prosper.

Miss Sleeth declares that the number of books loaned the second year will be far in excess of the number of books loaned the year of the library's existence. The librarian is not so busy issuing books in the summer as in the winter, but she says that reading of the library books has been much more general this summer than last.

It is hoped by the librarian and those interested in it that some improvements will be made before the opening of the winter season. It is already assured that many new volumes will be added to the book shelves.

So far as improvements are concerned, it is already being planned to greatly alter the appearance of the room that houses the library so as to make it pretty and attractive. At present the walls are not papered or decorated, and they are dirty at that. It is anticipated that they will be decorated and the floors worked over. Too, it will be necessary during the fall to add some more book shelves because of the many books which will be added.

A benefit which will be helpful to the library this year, and which did not exist last year, is the tax from the city, assessed by the city council for the upkeep of the library. This tax will come in very well in purchasing the new books desired and in making the desired improvements. The first year the library existed alone on the popular subscriptions.

A number of up-to-date reference books which will be very helpful to people who wish to do research work of any nature have already been ordered and will be here in a few days. The reference books will have to do with labor, the reconstruction of China, Alaska and other timely topics. Other books, too, of interest to all readers have been ordered.

The latest and most valued acquisition to the library is two bound volumes of Harpers Weekly of the years 1862 and 1865, near the time of the beginning of the civil war, and the end. They were given to the library by Mrs. Ora Wilson, formerly of this city, who is now librarian of Hamilton College at Lexington, Ky. Because of their age, the two volumes are highly prized by Miss Sleeth, who said the people of Rushville should feel deeply indebted to Mrs. Wilson for the gift.

Commenting on the growth of the library Miss Sleeth said that, while attending the State librarians school at Earlham College this summer, she told other librarians from cities in Indiana of the number of books loaned in the course of the first year.

She said many of them were dumbfounded and would hardly believe the record she had to offer. Miss Sleeth declared that she learned that many libraries in cities three and four times as large as Rushville did not have any more patronage—and the majority of them were Carnegie libraries at that.

PLANS AFOOT TO FORM TAFT CLUB

Many Republicans Anxious For Organization so They Can Help Out in Campaign.

HOPE MAY BE REALIZED SOON

Plans are being formulated to form a Taft club in Rush county. There are a number of Republicans who have expressed a keen desire to get into the campaign early because of what is at stake this year, and they are anxious to be of some value in the fight for the victory of the Republican party. It is intimated that some arrangements may be made in the next several days for a meeting at which a Taft club will be formed.

There are any number of Republicans who are only too willing to join such an organization and they are hoping that it will be perfected in the course of the campaign. It is anticipated by many that the time is ripe for the formation of a club to further the interests of the leader of the Republican party. It is believed that it could be started off with a large membership.

ONE OF REVIVAL WORKERS ARRIVE

Don Cochran, Custodian of Tabernacle, Says Work Will be Started at Once.

HAS TO BE BUILT NEXT WEEK

Don Cochran, one of the company of seven helpers who will be here with Dr. W. E. Biederwolf during the county wide evangelistic campaign, which will begin a week from next Sunday, arrived in Rushville today. It is Mr. Cochran's duty to oversee the erection of the tabernacle. Mr. Cochran said that work on the building which will be erected on the old foundry lot in Perkins street between Second and Third streets, will be started at once and rushed to completion. He stated that lumber would be hauled to the lot in the morning, and that the work of construction would be started off with a rush on Monday morning so that it will be completed by a week from tomorrow. Much of the labor will be volunteered, it is expected.

BUSINESS IN COURT DULL.

Business in the circuit court today was rather dull, only one case being settled. That was the note suit of Henry C. Doles and Paul E. Doles against Charles Barber, demanding $110, in which judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $90 was returned by Judge Blair. The case of Jackson against Brown, which was set down for today, was continued on account of the illness of one of the attorneys.

WOULD OUST THE NOMINEE

E. F. Warfel, Editor of Richmond Editor of Item, Presses Charges Against J. A. Greenstreet.

IS BULL MOOSE CANDIDATE

B. Dud. Foulke's Man "Friday" is Said to be Making Way Clear For His Master.

Joseph A. Greenstreet of Franklin township, the Bull Moose nominee for representative in congress from the Sixth district, is contemplating resigning as the candidate for congress, says the Newcastle Courier. The matter will be fully determined late this afternoon or tomorrow on the return of Rudolph G. Leeds of Richmond, district chairman, from a trip to New York.

Since his nomination for congress Mr. Greenstreet, it is stated, has been attacked by former business associates in Richmond. Mr. Greenstreet was formerly engaged in the business of manufacturing shovel handles in that city, but disposed of his interests there and became identified with the French piano company of this city.

W. R. Wilson, county chairman of the Bull Moose party in Henry county, was seen yesterday morning in regard to the report that Greenstreet had withdrawn as a candidate. Mr. Wilson stated that he would probably not do so.

"Mr. Greenstreet has been made the victim of a personal attack by former business associates," said Mr. Wilson. "He contemplated because of these attacks to withdraw as our party's candidate for congress. However, I do not believe that he will do so. The matter will be fully determined late this afternoon or tomorrow on the return of Mr. Leeds from New York."

Greenstreet and W. R. Steele went to Richmond Wednesday afternoon for a conference with Bull Moose leaders in that city. The men who had made the attack on him were also seen in every case, but one satisfactory arrangement and explanation were made. In the exception the individual would not be satisfied and was called "somewhat of an anarchist" by Chairman Wilson.

In case of Greenstreet's withdrawal the moose congressional mantle will probably fall on William Dudley Foulke, the Richmond millionaire editor.

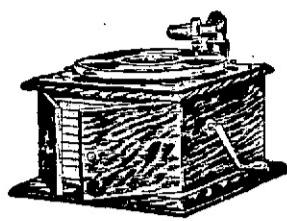

Foulke was defeated by Greenstreet at the district convention by the narrow margin of half a vote.

The nature of the attacks made on Greenstreet has not been made public. It is understood that they are of a business nature and are in connection with his identification with the handle industry in Richmond.

In a dispatch from Richmond, the Courier continues: The personal ambition of William Dudley Foulke, who was defeated for the Bull Moose nomination for congress by Joseph A. Greenstreet of Henry county, has resulted in the near disruption of the Moose district organization and may cause Greenstreet to resign as the congressional nominee.

Foulke's man, "Friday," Ed Warfel, editor of the Item, has dug up an alleged business scandal in which Greenstreet is said to have participated when he was in the handle manufacturing business at Richmond. Warfel, who is the Moosiest sort of a Moose and of the rule or ruin variety with "bean spilling" proclivities, has, it is stated, demanded that Greenstreet withdraw from the race and make room for a man with a reputation that is unsullied. That man, according to Warfel's notion and confirmed on page 1.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR SEPT. 15.

JUDGMENT AND MERCY.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 11:29-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. 11:28.

The paragraph mark separating verses 27 and 28 should rightfully be removed for that portion is but a continuation and a contrast with what has gone before. As we see from Luke's account, Jesus has sent out the seventy who return boasting of what had been accomplished in Jesus' name, only to receive his reproof that they are not so much to rejoice in that as that their names were written "in heaven."

Jesus had made his appeal to Judea only to be rejected; he has done a marvelous work in Galilee only to be rejected there also, and thus it leads to his appeal to the individual. Jesus knew that every problem of the church, financial or otherwise, every problem of the body politic, is in its final analysis one of the condition of the individual heart.

We have before us a twofold division of this lesson:

I. Those Who Reject. One can scarce reconcile the speaker of this first section with him who spoke the last words, but is any denunciation more awful than that of outraged love? There is no contradiction here for his invitation is extended to the very people whom he has denounced. Chorazin and Bethsaida, laden with sin, are urged to break off their yoke of bondage, be reconciled with him, become yoked with him whose burden is light.

Judgment Inevitable.

These cities had their day of opportunity. In like manner we notice that the measure of the judgment is the measure of opportunity. The fate of Tyre and Sodom was awful, but more terrible is to be the fate, in the day of judgment, of Chorazin and Bethsaida, because they sinned against the greater light. The possible exaltation of Capernaum as shown by the question in verse 23.

Again we need to note that judgment is inevitable. It is the lot and portion of us all. Jesus created a wonderful opportunity for those cities and in a like manner has created one for us as individuals of the city, what will be our accounting in the judgment? We as citizens are being illuminated by a wonderful revelation of truth and righteousness. Shall New York, Chicago and other large centers become as ancient Capernaum or Babylon, Nineveh and Tyre?

II. Those Who Come to Jesus. Coming now to the second section of our lesson, one can feel the tender pathos of the voice of Jesus as he turns from the whole to the individuals who comprise the whole and cries—"Hither to me." Not alone those who are burdened by ceremonialism or guilt but a more wonderful scope than that, "All who labor." His invitation is, however, limited, for it is to the laboring, thus excluding the wilfully idle, whether they be idle materially or spiritually.

Offers a Life.

Jesus knew the rest of harmonious relation to the Father, the rest of service, and so the climax of his invitation is the test of experience. v. 30. "For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." Notice that our labor is to be fruitful, "heavy laden," but the joy of service far outweighs any thought of its becoming a duty and therefore onerous. A yoke implies a being attached to a load and with another. How may we know if his words be true? There is but one condition, "Come." Jesus meant just what and all that word implies. The babe sitting upon the knee of its nurse knows what its mother means when she calls "Come," and so Jesus extends his arms to sorrowful, laden humanity as well as to ceremonially laden Israel and says "Come." Not to a church or to some religious leader, but to Jesus himself. The invitation is very personal both as to the one who shall come, and the one to whom we are to come.

There is in this lesson a luminous suggestion of Jesus' method of dealing with the ills of our great cities. He does not propose a lot of negotiations, but offers a life, an energizing power that shall enable a company of his believers to change these conditions of ill. Some one has called attention to Jesus' attitude towards the Roman empire. Not one word of specific rebuke nor denunciation, yet in approximately three hundred years there was a Christian emperor upon that throne.

These words of Jesus thrill with music. They have been a solace throughout the ages. They have brought into his kingdom countless thousands.

Jesus here assumes, as he always did, that the woes of the impenitent and the joys of the saved are conditioned upon our attitude towards him. Let us be careful not to slip the yoke and not to be unequally yoked with unbelievers. We are called to a partnership, a community of interest and to an agreement with him whose "yoke is easy and whose burden is light."

Judgment and Mercy. Matt. xi:20-30.
Golden Text—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Matt. xi:28.

(1) Verse 20—What is the different degree of blameworthiness to one who rejects the gospel after having had many opportunities to accept and one who rejects it having had but few opportunities?

(2) Verse 21—if two sinners, practically duplicates of each other, hear the gospel and the one under very great influence accepts, while the other under a less influence rejects, should we blame the latter for rejecting or the influence for being too weak? Why?

(3) What "mighty works," if any,
are recorded as having been done in Chorazin?

(4) What proportion of the "works" and sayings of Jesus would you say we have recorded in the four gospels?

(5) What amount of blame must we give to Tyre and Sidon for not repenting now we know they would have done so if the influences had been stronger?

(6) Verse 22—Will there be degrees of punishments for the wicked and degrees of rewards for the good in the future state? Why?

(7) Verses 23-24—What would you say is the literal meaning of the doom which Jesus pronounces upon Caper-naum?

(8) Why was Sodom, that very wicked city, deserving of less blame than Capernaum?

(9) Which entails the greater guilt, and why, the degree of sin or the degree of resistance of salvation? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(10) What had Jesus done in Caper-naum which laid that city under such a debt of obligation?

(11) When do you think the "day of judgment" will be?

(12) Verses 25-26—What class of people were they in that day which most readily accepted the story of the gespel?

(13) What class of men and women for the most part, were the special friends of Jesus?

(14) In what way does God hide spiritual truth from "the wise and prudent" and reveal it "unto babes?"

(15) Why is it that a proud educated man or a proud rich man cannot perceive spiritual truth?

(16) What class of persons are those who see, hear and obey God?

(17) Verse 27—Upon whom does our eternal salvation and our communion with God depend? Why?

(18) Verses 29-30—Who are the burdened and heavy laden to whom this invitation is given?

(19) What is the nature of the rest which Jesus gives?

(20) Is it hard or easy, and why, to live a perfect Christian life?

Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 22, 1912.
The Feeding of the Five Thousand
Mark vi:30-44.

DON'T BE CREATURE OF HABIT

It is Better to Make Some Blunders
Than to Oscillate Always in a Groove.

It is a good plan to break one's habits occasionally, to see that it can still be done. To follow even the best of habits too closely tends to ossify existence. It makes one stiff. It narrows his tastes. The retired farmer who still gets up before daylight every morning, so as to get an early start waiting for bedtime, would be much better off if during the stress of life he had broken his habit occasionally and slept until nine o'clock.

The city man who lets the street,
the flat, the office grind become an unbearable habit loses all his elasticity.

Recently a brother and sister were found in an eastern state who had lived on the same farm for sixty years, and during that time had not been ten miles from home. For thirty years the woman had not been to town, five miles away, and for 15 years, although well and strong, she had not been so far from the house as the branch in their bottom field.

Habits of life like this become prison chains. One must do some things the same way or nearly the same to learn to do them well, but once having acquired the skill of repetition, it is well to break away and do it some other way. It is better to make some blunders and get some knocks experimenting than to oscillate in a groove until freedom ends.—Collier's Weekly.

Christian Endeavor By E. P. Gates

TOPIC FOR SEPTEMBER 15.

Getting the Most From Prayer. Pg.
34:1-22.

Results from prayer depends greatly on the right attitude of petition.
Pride cannot pray successfully. But "the Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart, and saith such as be of a contrite spirit."

Prevailing prayer must be frequent.
We are told to pray without ceasing.

Prayer should be definite. What right have we to expect what we ask for unless we know ourselves what it is we want?

Prayer should be more than a formality.
A few muttered words before breakfast may keep the letter of the Christian Endeavor pledge, but it can hardly be called real prayer.

There is no better aid to a sincere prayer life for Christian Endeavorers than the Quiet Hour movement. Members of this organization pledge themselves as follows: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength I renounce

ise and that I will make it the rule of my life to set apart at least fifteen minutes a day (preferably in the early morning) for quiet communion with God." This period may be spent in prayer, Bible study or quiet meditation.

There are no dues to this organization. It costs nothing to join. Anyone is eligible. Its one purpose is to develop among young people a deeper sense of the real power that comes from communion with the master.
Those who desire to join should send their names to William Shaw, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, Tremont temple,
Boston, Mass.

Next Week's Meeting.
Topic: Believe Believe Much! Believe strongly! John 11:17-27, 41-46.

Notes of the Work.

western Europe. Dr. Clark receives no salary for his services, maintaining himself in his travels by editorial and other literary work.

Four hundred societies have been organized in India during the past two

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the man who calls September the best month in the year evidently forgot about the new pumpkins pies of October.

ing around chilly October nights to get their money out of the banks.

Theodore Roosevelt seems to like panies. They're in his line, and if he hasn't one handy he'll take care to scare it up. He was certainly successful in bringing on plenty of panic in 1907, from the effects of which the country has just recovered, but he is very much mistaken in thinking that the American people want some more of the same. If he is so afflicted that he must have a St. Vitus dance, he should invite the party known as "Gabby George" and the other underwriters of his campaign to Oyster Bay, where they can have the dance all to themselves and not disturb plain, ordinary folk who have a living to earn and savings banks they don't want to draw on.

The real peril to peace, order and prosperity in the Roosevelt madness is the backing he is giving to Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party in their campaign of reaction, sectionalism and free trade. Wilson's success would be a calamity involving repression and ruin more widespread than that which followed the Democratic success in 1892, and the Wilson low tariff and free trade bill of 1894, for the reason that the nation has expanded since that time, and the interests disastrously affected would be vastly greater.

A Minister's Tribute.

John Callahan, superintendent of the Hadley Rescue Mission, 293 Bowery, New York city, a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church, has paid the following tribute to President Taft as viewed by one of the "common people" working among the "down and outs":

"I regard President Taft as one of the great, big-hearted, generous, conscientious, gaudy statesmen of the day. I do not speak as a capitalist, or one in any way connected with the capitalistic class. I speak as one of the common people, who, as superintendent of the Hadley Rescue Mission in New York city, is devoted to the uplift of the common people and particularly those who are commonly referred to as the 'Down and Outs.'

"Representing this class, I cannot speak too strongly of the sympathetic, helpful, Christian character of our great President. The boys on the Bowery hold him in the highest esteem, not because he has a great intellect or that he is a great statesman, but because they have found in him an unselfish champion, a sympathetic friend who never loses an opportunity to every cause directed toward their well-being an interest in them to help being."

"I sincerely hope and pray that this big man, misunderstood by some as Lincoln was misunderstood, but loved by all who actually know him, will be returned to the White House for four years more."

Leo K. Fesler, of the Republican state publicity bureau, has given out a statement to the effect that reports of attendance at Bull Moose meetings in various parts of the State have been greatly exaggerated. The Bull Moose story that three thousand people cheered Mr. Beveridge at Winchester Monday afternoon, was denied by Mr. Fesler.

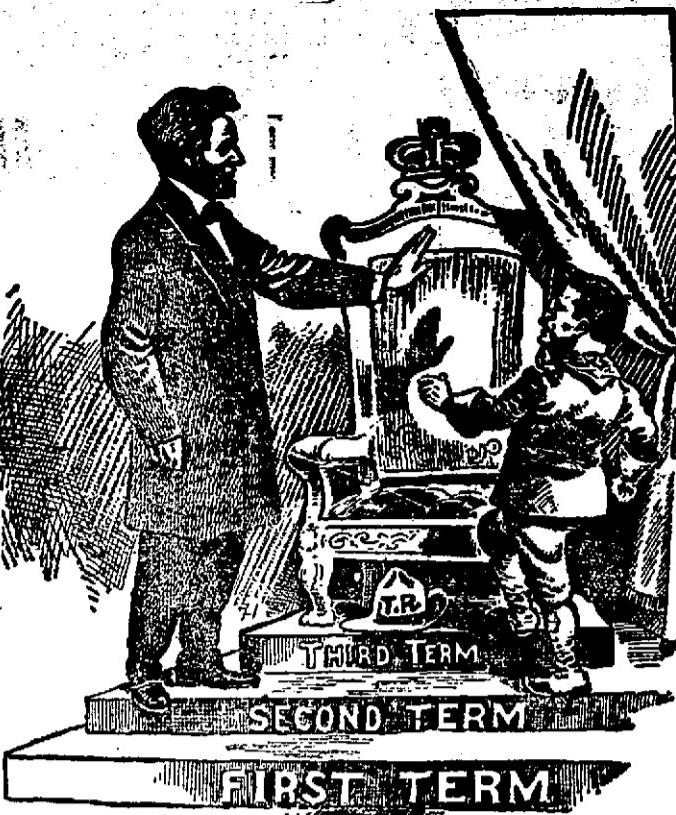

"The truth is, the crowd was counted by two men," he said. "One of them counted four hundred and sixty people and the other counted five hundred and seventy-five, including boys, girls and babies." Mr. Fesler said he had received reports that Mr. Beveridge's Portland meeting was attended by considerably less than two thousand people.

A published report that the Bull Moose county convention at Sullivan was attended by two hundred delegates and boosters was denied by Mr. Fesler, who said he had affidavits showing that only nineteen men and one woman attended the convention.

The last Congress appropriated $372,500,000 for the army, navy and pensions, and yet Uncle Sam could not arbitrate the ownership of a few feet of backyard on account of his "honor."

Even the Socialists and Prohibitionists have it figured out that the Vermont vote proves conclusively that their candidate will land in the White house.

"It thirsts and burns for distinction; and, if possible, it will have it. Is it unreasonable, then, to expect that some men, possessed of the loftiest genius, coupled with ambition sufficient to push to the utmost stretch, will at some time spring up among us? And when such a one does, it will require the people to be united with each other, attached to the government and laws, and generally intelligent, to successfully frustrate his design."

"Distinction will be his paramount object, and although he would as willingly acquire it by doing good as harm, yet nothing left in the way of building up he would sit down boldly to the task of pulling down. Here, then, is a probable case, highly dangerous." —From Mr. Lincoln's Speech Before the Young Men's Lyceum, Springfield, Ill.

—From the Omaha Daily Bee, March 19, 1912.

representing only three townships of the fourteen in the country.

A vote for Roosevelt is a half vote for 1893, 1894 and 1895 over again. No farmer who would enjoy again the sensation of raising fifteen cent corn ought to overlook the chance of casting either a half vote or a full vote for another Professor Wilson tariff law. If that is really what a farmer wants, however, a full vote for Wilson will be just as effective as a half vote.

When our textile industries are crushed by free trade, think of the suffering while men and women trained to those industries are changing their occupation, hunting jobs, or learning to farm it. Elderly people would simply be unable to change, while for younger workers a long period of awkward insufficiency would result.

As for the trusts, the Taft administration has done all that could possibly be done in this time with the laws in force, but if he had had seven years in the white house, with a republican congress at his back, he would have had far more effective and efficient laws.

Mr. Taft had this to say of progress and reformers:

"One trouble with the present-day reformer is that he wants his reforms put into effect tomorrow morning for breakfast. Reforms do not come that quickly. Mere change is not necessarily progress."

Governor Marshall says that eighty per cent of the votes are natural born Democrats. It follows that fully fifty per cent of the eighty per cent are unable to stand for the leaders into whose hands the Democratic cause has fallen.

Modesty is always becoming in a gentleman, a scholar and a statesman, says one of our exchanges. It will not be difficult for the reader to understand whom this writer had in mind when this sentence was suggested.

At Columbus, Ohio, President Taft publicly expressed his exercise of the veto power. He declared that a President who did not use the veto power when he thought it should be used proved himself a coward.

The last Congress appropriated $372,500,000 for the army, navy and pensions, and yet Uncle Sam could not arbitrate the ownership of a few feet of backyard on account of his "honor."

Even the Socialists and Prohibitionists have it figured out that the Vermont vote proves conclusively that their candidate will land in the White house.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking AboutSome Revelations.

(Marion Chronicle.)

The Richmond Palladium, published by R. G. Leeds, son of the late financial magnate, one of the most ardent among the so-called progressives, said last Monday that these so-called progressives, in order to beat the republicans in Maine had "decided to support Plaisted, the democratic candidate for governor. All through the campaign," says the Palladium, "they have been fighting sturdy in the democratic ranks."

Then this paper goes on to give what it imagines to be the reasons for this support to the democratic ticket in that state. They are really no reasons, but causes and there may be a great deal of difference between a cause and a reason.

Of course, no one disputes the Palladium statement, for it is well known that the leaders of the so-called progressive party are determined, if possible, to defeat the republican party, chiefly because they have not been able to boss it. No one who knows the situation questions the fact that the so-called progressive bosses prefer the success of the democratic party to the success of the republican party, but it was hardly to be expected than any of them would be so foolish as openly to declare this fact. This paper, however, not only makes this statement and declare it boldly and emphatically.

Mind you, this article was published on Monday, when not only this paper, but progressives everywhere, predicted and prayed for republican defeat in Maine. Here, for instance, is a sentence that the Palladium on that day published in capital letters in order to emphasize the part the so-called progressives had taken in the attempt to elect the democratic candidate for governor:

"If Plaisted is re-elected in Maine," it says, "it will be as much a victory for the progressives as it will be for the democrats."

Of course, this is true, but inasmuch as Plaisted was defeated against the combined efforts of both the democrats and the so-called progressives, according to the frank confession of this so-called progressive leader, it logically follows that his defeat is a defeat for the so-called progressives as well as for the democrats. So, if the G. O. P. is too strong for the two parties when they combine their efforts, what does any one suppose will happen when they divide their forces as they propose to do at the national election?

The body of Charles H. Campbell was taken to his home in Shelbyville yesterday. By special request of Mrs. Campbell the funeral has been announced for Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. No matter how busy he was, Mr. Campbell always spent his Sundays at home, and Mrs. Campbell requested that his body be left in his home over Sunday. Services will be held at the residence and the funeral oration will be delivered by the Rev. L. O. Richmond of Terre Haute, former pastor of the Presbyterian church of Shelbyville, of which Mr. Campbell was a member. The funeral will be in charge of the Baldwin commandery Knights Templar of Shelbyville, but the Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Modern Woodmen and Elks also will be represented. Many from here will attend.

ARVIN REFERS TO LITTLE MAN

Former Pastor Says he Hopes to See Him Succeed in Blue Grass
State.

EVIDENTLY MEANS HIMSELF

In Letter to Baptist Publication the Rev. Mr. Arvin Addresses Letter to Hoosiers.

Many of the First Baptist church and other friends of the Rev. J. F. Arvin, who resigned as pastor of that church a few months ago, will be pleased to learn that he is succeeding as pastor of the Baptist church at New Haven, Kentuckey.

The Rev. Mr. Arvin, in a letter to "The Observer," a Baptist publication, refers to the little man, and it is presumed by people here that he means himself as he was called the little man by some members of the church. He writes that he still has a great interest in the Hoosier State in which he tried to act as pastor of several churches, according to his letter which follows:

Dear Observer:—I have not sent you any word since I left the old Hoosier State. I still feel interested in God's cause in Indiana and live to read the letters from the churches more than ever, and feel that all the Baptists ought to help the little man to reach the top of the ladder. I love to watch him climb and trust that the churches I tried to pastor while I was in the State will do all they can to help him to the top. I will give a little history of my work here to those who would like to hear from it.

I came to New Haven, Ky., the first of June. This is a strong Catholic settlement, a little more than half of the population being Catholic. The church here has 103 members, and had half time preaching. Our Sunday school has grown from forty-six to a hundred. Our congregations have doubled. We raised $176 for benevolences, and have taken on fall time preaching. Pay $1000 salary. Added fourteen new members to the church and feel like telling my people about the good people of Indiana and how I enjoyed my stay there.

I trust that we may have the prayers of all the good people who read this letter, that God may show his power in this wicked community. And may the blessing of God rest upon the work in Indiana. Yours for the Kingdom.

TAFT SELECTS WATSON

Thinks he is Best Fitted to Open
Ohio Campaign.

James E. Watson will open the Republican campaign in Ohio with a speech at Columbus on September 21, writes Ellis Searles in the Huntington Herald. He is doing this at the special invitation and request of President Taft, since Ohio is the President's home state. Mr. Watson is regarded as one of the strongest campaign speakers in the Republican party, and his services are in demand all over the country. President Taft thinks a great deal of him and it is said that the President felt that Watson would be the best man to open the Ohio campaign. Watson was President Taft's floor manager in the Chicago convention. He will devote as much of his time as possible to speechmaking in Indiana during the campaign, but he will also be at the command of the national committee and will fill engagements in a number of states.

WHY BE MISERABLE WITH HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe Remedy Gives Instant Relief, Even in The Worst Cases.

Thousands of people are miserable two or three months every summer with Hay Fever and Rose Cold. They go around sneezing, blowing the nose and wiping their eyes, and at night they are so choked up they can hardly breathe. There is no need of this. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve all these distressing symptoms in less than five minutes' time.

Hay Fever is due to an over sensitive condition of the membrane lining of the nose and throat. Ely's Cream Balm soothes, heals and strengthens this delicate inside skin, so that you not only get instant relief but are also protected against a return of the trouble.

Don't hesitate because you have been disappointed with other remedies. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after a fair trial, get your money back. All druggists sell and recommend it.

themselves are nothing. What do you suppose I care for veiled threats of that sort? I'm big enough to take care of myself, Clyde. I've met peril in about every possible guise, in every part of the world, and I've never really known fear. But this—is different. And the worst of it, I don't know why. I can't for the life of me make out what it is I'm afraid of."

He had gone very pale, and his strong, capable hands, which toyed with the two letters, quivered and twitched in excess of nervous tension. Then, with a finger pointing to the ink-stain at the bottom of one of the sheets, he asked:

"What does that look like to you?"

I took the letter from him, and scrutinizing the rude figure with concentrated attention for a moment, ventured the suggestion that it somewhat resembled a boat.

"A one-masted vessel, square-rigged," he added, in elucidation.

"Exactly."

"Now turn it upside down."

I did so.

"Now what do you see?"

"The head of a man wearing a helmet." The resemblance was very marked.

"Can it be a Chinese junk?" I asked.

"It might be a sailing proa or balsa," he returned, "such as they use in the South Pacific. But whatever it is, I can't understand what it has to do with me or I with it."

I was still studying the black daub, when he said:

"But you haven't told me about the handwriting. What can you read of the character of the writer?"

"Nothing," I answered, promptly. "It is curious penmanship, as you say—heavy and regular and upright, with some strangely formed letters; especially the 'f's and the 'p's; but it tells me nothing."

"But I thought—" he began.

"That I boasted? So I did. When one writes as one habitually writes it is very easy. These letters, however, are not in the writer's ordinary hand. The writing is as artificial as though you, for example, had printed a note in Roman characters. Were they addressed in the same hand?"

"Precisely."

"What was the post-mark?"

"They bore no post-mark. That is another strange circumstance. Yet they were with my mail. How they came there I have been unable to ascertain. The people at the post office naturally deny that they delivered anything unstamped, as these were; and Barrie, the lad who fetches the letters, has no recollection of these. Nor has Checkabuddy, who sorts the mail here at the house. But each of them lay beside my plate at breakfast—the first on the fourteenth of August; the second, this morning, the fourteenth of September."

"And they were not delivered by messenger?"

"So far as I can learn, no."

"It is very odd," I commented, with feeble banality.

I took the letters from his hands once more, and held them in turn between my vision and the candle-light, hoping, perchance, to discover a water-mark in the paper. But I was not rewarded.

"You examined the envelopes carefully, I presume?" was my query as I returned the sheets to the table.

"More than carefully," he answered. "But you shall see them, if you like. I found no trace of any identifying mark."

Thus far he had made no further mention of the "puzzling happening" which followed the receipt of the first letter, and in the interest provoked by the letters themselves I had forebore to question him; but now as the words "seventh day hence" fell again under my eye, standing out, as it were, from the rest of the script which lay turned on the table before me, I was conscious of a stimulated concern, and so made inquiry.

"I wish you would tell me, first, whether anything really did occur on the seventh day."

"I was coming to that," he replied;

but it seemed to me that prompt though his response was, there was a shade of reluctance in his manner; for he relapsed into silence for what must have been the better part of a minute, and with eyes lowered sat seemingly lost in thought.

Then he rose, abruptly, and saying: "Suppose we go into my study, Clyde," led the way from the dining room, across the great, imposing grained and fretted hall to that comparatively small, mahogany and green symphony wherein he was wont to spend most of his indoor hours. It was always a rather gloomy room at night, with its high dark ceiling, its heavy and voluminous olive tapestry hangings, wholly out of keeping, it seemed to me, with the season—and its shaded lights confined to the vicinity of the massive polished, and gilt-ornamented writing table of the period of the First Empire. And it impressed me now, in conjunction with Cameron's promised revelation, as more than ever grim and awesome.

I remember helping myself to a cigar from the humidor which stood on the antique cabinet in the corner near the door. I was in the act of lighting it when Cameron spoke.

"I want you to sit in this chair," he said, indicating one of sumptuous upholstered which stood beside the writing table, facing the low, long bookcases lining the opposite wall.

I did as he bade me, while he remained standing.

"Do you, by any chance," he asked, "remember a portrait which hung above the book-shelves?"

I remembered it very well. It was a painting of himself, done some years back. But now my gaze sought it in vain.

"Certainly," I answered. "It hung there," pointing.

"Quite right. Now I want you to observe the shelf-top. You see how crowded it is."

It was indeed crowded. Bronze busts and statuettes; yachting and golf trophies in silver; framed photographs; a score of odds and ends, souvenirs gathered the world over. There was scarcely an inch of space unoccupied. I had frequently observed this plethora of ornament and resented it.

He had gone very pale, and his strong, capable hands, which toyed with the two letters, quivered and twitched in excess of nervous tension.

Then, with a finger pointing to the ink-stain at the bottom of one of the sheets, he asked:

"What does that look like to you?"

Thus far he had made no further mention of the "puzzling happening" which followed the receipt of the first letter, and in the interest provoked by the letters themselves I had forebore to question him; but now as the words "seventh day hence" fell again under my eye, standing out, as it were, from the rest of the script which lay turned on the table before me, I was conscious of a stimulated concern, and so made inquiry.

"I wish you would tell me, first, whether anything really did occur on the seventh day."

"I was coming to that," he replied;

STOMACH ALWAYS FEELS FINE

Eat and Drink What You Want Whenever You Want It.

Don't you know that a whole lot of this indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach talk is all nonsense.

Don't you know that fermentation of food in the stomach causes nearly all stomach troubles.

Don't you know that MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets compounded from the best prescription for stomach distress ever written, will put your troublesome stomach in fine condition, or money back.

MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets give instant relief. Take them for gas, sourness, heaviness, heartburn, or after dinner distress. Keep them with you and take them regularly until your stomach is strong and vigorous. Large box 50c. at F. B. Johnson & Co.

Cameron showed me the mutilated portrait. He had taken it down almost immediately, and had hidden it away in a closet of the hall behind an array of raincoats. The cutting had been done, evidently, with an exceedingly keen blade, and very dexterously done. But that it should have been accomplished in twelve minutes, while Cameron sat in the room, not fifteen feet distant, was beyond our comprehension.

Absorption in his book was the nearest we came to a solution, and that was scarcely tenable. For there was the crowded top of the bookshelves. To cut the canvas, the vandals must either have stood upon that or have reared a ladder. There was not room for the foot of a child on the shelf-top; and as for the ladder, it was unthinkable. How could a ladder have been carried in and out without Cameron being conscious of it? From every possible angle we viewed the incident, making every conceivable concession, and no half-way plausible answer to the riddle presented itself.

And though our common-sense told us that the time of miracles was long past, that no Gyges' ring nor Alberich's cloak survived to this day to make invisible their wearers, there persisted, nevertheless, a chill, uncanny sense of the supernatural, quite evident to me in Cameron's hushed voice and furtive manner, and in my own unvoiced nervous disquietude.

We sat very late. I wished, if possible, to learn if at any time in my friend's life he had done ought to endanger an enemy to which these strange developments could be traced —whether, for instance, in the hot blood of his youth in some far land he had provoked the vengeance of one whose humor it is never to forget. As we talked I came to know Cameron better than I had ever known him before. He bore to me much of his early career; he gave me a clearer view of his temperamental qualities; and yet I could not but feel that he left the vital point untouched, that there was no head nor face there!

HE WOULDN'T EAT WITH MR. MURPHY

Governor Wilson Disarranges Luncheon Plans.

TAKEN AS SNUB FOR GOV. DIX

Democratic Presidential Nominee Cast Bomb Into Camp of Murphy-Dix Following When He Not Only Declined to Be Photographed With Murphy and Dix, but Left Luncheon at Which He Would Have Been Near Them.

New York, Sept. 13.—As the presidential candidate of the Democratic party, Governor Wilson of New Jersey indicated very clearly on arriving here from Syracuse that he was opposed to the renomination of John A. Dix for governor of New York state.

His recent utterance to the effect that the nomination of Oscar S. Straus by the Roosevelt party put the Democrats on their mettle was supplemented by his statement to the association of county chairmen at Syracuse that the example of this state would be marked as would be the example of no other state, and that the people of the country were waiting to see if the party in this state was alive to its opportunity and duty.

The whole course of the day's events contributed to the formation of the opinion that the presidential nominee does not want Governor Dix as a gubernatorial candidate, and that while he feels he may not so declare himself, he will not permit the impression to get abroad that he is friendly to Charles F. Murphy or any other Democratic leaders who have made up their minds that Governor Dix shall be re-nominated.

He refused to talk politics with Governor Dix, he refused to be photographed with Governor Dix and Mr. Murphy, and he left a luncheon at which the seating arrangements placed him conspicuously with these gentlemen and others who are at the head of the organization in the state. When he left Syracuse the governor was angry. He let it be known that he knew an attempt had been made to use him to bolster up Murphy's claim as a representative leader and that he resented that attempt as well as the attempt that was made to use his presence as the guest of the state fair officials for the purpose of showing that he was on friendly terms with those who are trying to bring about the re-nomination of Governor Dix.

TALKED ON TARIFF

Governor Wilson Addressed Crowd of 15,000 at State Fair.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Governor Wilson, accompanied by Governor Dix, Senator O'Gorman, Acting Democratic National Chairman McAdoo, Fair Commissioner Driscoll and others, escorted by Troop D, was jubilantly applauded as he entered the fair grounds last evening. There was an audience of 15,000. Governor Wilson's address was devoted almost entirely to the tariff.

How Dundee Suffragette Hoped to Reach Mr. Churchill.

Dundee, Sept. 13.—A suffragette named Clunies went to the postoffice here with a card affixed to herself, addressed to the residence where Winston Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty, is staying. She requested the postal authorities to deliver her by express messenger. In accordance with the regulations of the postoffice they were obliged to comply, and took the "human parcel" to its destination.

Mr. Churchill was absent when the parcel arrived, and his secretary refused to accept the woman, who withdrew much chagrined.

JOHN A. DIX

Governor of New York Gets Cold Shoulder From Wilson.

FUGITIVE TAKES BRIDE WITH HIM

The Latest Exploit of Young Orville Hodgson.

POSED AS A MILLIONAIRE

Hartford City Forger Who Has Successfully Eluded Police of Three Cities, Now is Reported to Have Made His Latest Getaway With a Bride, a Louisville Girl, Whose Family Accepted Him as a Man of Wealth.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 13.—Word comes that the young man believed to be Orville Hodgson of this city, who is wanted at Frankfort and Indianapolis on forgery charges and with rewards of $1,150 outstanding for him, was married Tuesday in Covington, Ky., to Miss Hattie Bainbridge of Louisville.

The forger plunged into matrimony less than twenty-four hours after he had wriggled through the fingers of the officers of the law in Louisville. He had been arrested after trying to cash a check for $1,750 at the Southern National bank, which he had persuaded a Shelbyville (Ky.) bank to give him in part exchange for a $2,750 check, to which he is accused of forging the name of a Shelbyville (Ky.) firm.

He hurried to Louisville in his automobile to cash the check, but while he was negotiating it a telephone message came from Shelbyville and he was arrested after an exciting chase.

He engaged attorneys who obtained the low bond of $300 for him. He put up the bond, gave the attorney his automobile and disappeared. The forger had been living in Louisville several weeks posing as a New York millionaire, and had made the acquaintance of Miss Bainbridge. Monday afternoon he was to attend a picnic with the Bainbridge family, but he telephoned that afternoon that he had been called to Cincinnati.

Monday night Miss Bainbridge went to Cincinnati on a shopping tour with Miss Anna Hays. Tuesday she met the man supposed to be Hodgson there and they were married by the Rev. N. E. Carlisle in Covington. Miss Hays returned home and brought the marriage certificate to the parents of Miss Bainbridge, who in the meantime had discovered that their daughter's husband is a forger and are distressed over her marriage. Miss Hays says she had no idea that Miss Bainbridge was to be married. Where the two are now no one knows.

JURY DISAGREED

Suit to Quiet Title to Valuable Lands a Mistrial.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 13.—A jury in the superior court reported a disagreement in the case instituted by Mrs. Drusilla Carr of Miller, Lake county, to quiet the title to 350 acres of land near Gary in her name. Mrs. Carr contended that she owned the land by adverse possession and her right to the property was not disputed until recently. The land, practically worthless before Gary was built, is now worth $52,500. Last spring, after a trial lasting a month, title to land on the lake shore near Gary, worth $250,000, was given Mrs. Carr.

This Thief Was Nervy.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 13.—While Anders Hansen, day police sergeant, slept, a thief, who evidently knew of Hansen's habit of carrying large sums of money, crept into his home and robbed him of between $200 and $400. The money was taken from a pocket of Hansen's trousers, which hung less than eight feet from the bed where the policeman and his wife were sleeping.

LINE-UP WILL BE UNCHANGED

Newcastle Will Face Rushville Sunday With Practically Same Team as Week Ago.

400 ROOTERS ARE COMING

Game Premises to Attract Record Breaking Crowd—Walters or Maxwell to Pitch.

The game Sunday between the locals and the Maxwells of Newcastle, champions of the Indiana State League, will undoubtedly be the best of the season for this city. In a majority of games here Rushville has outclassed their opponents and has had no really hard games. The team while playing good ball has not been forced to extend.

But with Newcastle it is a different story as the fans who witnessed the game last Sunday well know. The local team will be forced to play as hard as they did last Sunday. Rushville will be playing a team in its own class and the battle should be a hummer. The game last Sunday which went ten innings showed the Newcastle team did not have it soft by any means and Rushville will not only give Maxwell a fight, but hopes to win.

The Newcastle team will not be strengthened to any great extent as was first thought. The team, according to all reports is stronger than that which went through the league season. Dul Williams, manager of the Maxwell team has sent his line-up to Manager Maibaugh and the team is practically the same as that of last Sunday. The line-up received here is as follows: Kilgore, 1st; Ernestberger, 2d; Stadifelt, ss; Stiers, lf; Green, cf; Wilson, rf; Riley, c; Maxwell or Walters, p.

Interest in the game continues to be intense. Word from Newcastle states that at least 400 rooters will invade this city and pull for a second victory over the locals. Fans here refuse to believe that Newcastle has the best team and with an even break in luck Rushville should romp home with a victory. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

WOULD DUST THE NOMINEE

ENOS PORTER TO STAY BY PARTY

Prominent Republican of Shelbyville, Well Known Here, Accepts Place on Executive Committee.

T. R. DELEGATE FROM SIXTH

Expresses Belief Taft Was Honestly Nominated and Republican Party Should be Supported.

Expressing the belief that President Taft was fairly and honestly nominated by the Republican convention at Chicago and that the principles that the Republican party stands for should be supported, Enos Porter of Shelbyville, who was a Roosevelt delegate from the Sixth district at the Chicago convention, has accepted a place on the Indiana Republican executive committee.

Mr. Porter who has been in Chicago on business, stopped off at Indianapolis Wednesday on his way home in order to call on Fred A. Sims, chairman of the Republican State committee, and tell him that he would accept the appointment as a member of the committee, according to the Indianapolis News. There are few better known party workers in the State than Mr. Porter, who is influential in Shelby county and Sixth district affairs. He made a hard fight for Roosevelt previously to the Republican convention at Chicago, and after being elected delegate to the convention did his best to help effect Roosevelt's nomination.

But when the convention nominated President Taft, Mr. Porter could not see the alleged fraud in the nomination which many of the Roosevelt men contended was there. Mr. Porter is now for the election of President Taft and the whole Republican ticket. He has returned to Shelby county, where he will be an active worker for the Republican success in the State. The other members of the State executive committee are George B. Lockwood of Marion; George W. Kreitenstein of Terre Haute; Webb Woodfill of Greensburg; and Perry Smith of Warsaw. The executive committee now has active supervision of county and precinct organization work all over the State.

MAPLE IS BACK IN TERRE HAUTE

Local Trainer Arrives From Ft. Wayne in Time to Drive Game Chance to Money.

COLLEGE JIM TAKES A RACE

Clell Maple's back in Terre Haute. He got there soon enough yesterday to win second money in the three-year-old pace with Game of Chance, a Rush county owned and bred youngster. The horse has been winning consistently all season. The best time was in 2:20½. Maple won a race at Fort Wayne Wednesday with Nellie Gray, after having finished in the money with Lady Maude S. at Terre Haute Tuesday.

Harrie Jones won the free-for-all pace at Fort Wayne yesterday with College Jim, the veteran campaigner, who the local trainer gave a mark of 2:06 last week at the State fair in order to win a race. The best time was in 2:08½. The pace was the feature of the day's card there.

Curt Gosnell won the 2:17 pace at Fairmount, West Virginia, yesterday with Halley's Comet. He was strong enough to win the first heat, but fell back to fifth place in the second heat. He came back good the last two heats and won with ease.
